

COVID-19 UPDATE – RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS: LIVE STREAMING

PPCA acknowledges that the COVID-19 pandemic is causing significant challenges to religious institutions such as churches and other places of worship.

PPCA has received a number of enquiries from religious institutions regarding the live streaming of their services to their members and congregation.

In the current circumstances, PPCA is providing complimentary temporary licences to religious institutions for the purpose of live streaming its religious services within the territory of Australia until 30 September 2020. This means that for a limited period of time, this will allow religious institutions to stream sound recordings within religious services conducted as a live stream.

If you are interested in using sound recordings in the live stream of your religious service, please contact us at business.affairs@ppca.com.au for more information regarding this licence.
