

Australian Government

Department of Communications and the Arts

Review of Code of Conduct for Copyright Collecting Societies – Have Your Say

The Department of Communications and the Arts has commenced a review into the voluntary Code of Conduct for Copyright Collecting Societies, and they are interested in hearing your views. The review will examine the extent to which the Code promotes fair and efficient outcomes for both members and licensees of copyright collecting societies in Australia.

If you have dealings with any of Australia's eight copyright collecting societies* and want to share your views on how they operate, please visit www.communications.gov.au/codereview. You can provide a short comment or written submission by 15 September 2017.

*Copyright Agency Limited, Viscopy, Australian Performing Rights Association (APRA), Australasian Mechanical Copyright Owners' Society (AMCOS), Phonographic Performance Company of Australia (PPCA), The Audio Visual Copyright Society (Screenrights), Australian Screen Directors Authorship Collecting Society (ASDACS), Australian Writers' Guild Authorship Collecting Society (AWGACS).