Explanatory Notes

1. The above rates apply per person of seating capacity for each day of operation. For example, the daily rate for a café with 40 seats with an average main meal price of between $7.51 and $15.00 and no licence to sell alcohol will be $2.972. The daily rate for a restaurant with 40 seats with an average main meal price of $15.01 to $25.00 and which has a licence to sell alcohol will be $7.388.
2. To calculate average cost of main meal, exclude cost of entrees, desserts and all beverages.
3. Where the establishment has no separate prices for a main meal (for example, tapas style dining or fixed menus only), the Average Cost of a Main Meal is taken to be 50% of the reasonable estimate of the typical spend of a person at the venue (excluding spend on beverages).
4. The rates set out in this tariff will apply from 1 July 2017 to 30 June 2018.
5. For multifunction venues such as pubs, clubs and hotels (where accommodation is not the primary function) this tariff applies only to the part of the venue designated or reserved solely for the consumption of food/beverages.
6. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, a minimum quarterly fee of $54.74 will apply to all licences under this tariff.
